Choose your food plants well to keep your family healthy.

Many local and traditional food plants are full of good nutrients for growth and health.

Western Pacific plants protein content

Protein is important for growth, mothers feeding babies and for recovering from illness.

Many local and traditional food plants are adapted to the Western Pacific — they grow easily and well!

Fruit and leafy greens Vitamin C content

Vitamin C is important in helping us to avoid sickness.